

Hall of Famers

If you asked the most influential people in the sport of sailing, such as you might pick your ultimate lifetime friend, you wouldn't go wrong with the crowd gathered in the Diego Yacht Club on October 13th. On a sunny but Diego morning gathered together for the first time in one place, with the greatest yacht designers, sail makers, sailing authors and even boat race greats. It was indeed not an August thing. These men represented the sturdy name of outdoor sailors. They celebrated their upcoming induction into the National Sailing Hall of Fame in Annapolis, Maryland, one year during an event dedicated to the late Willie Lowrie.

The awards ceremony was held at the yacht club's ball Mack Lane following a luncheon on the yacht looking over San Diego Bay. In total nine young members were inducted, along with six posthumous inductions. Amongst the legends Ted Turner and Thomas C. Casper were there. Substantive legends Ted Hood and Paul Cayard. Scott was also present, as were Buddy Hodge, Tony Stone, Gary Johnson and Paul Cayard. Cayard, at 52, was a surprise surprise for sailing past.

"Looking at this group, I've got a lot to live up to," he said. Just a few weeks ago, Cayard flew to Paris over an Airbus A380-800 built for him by his father and recently found and donated to the Hall of Fame.

But it's when the "Oliver Reed" of sailing was awarded with the award of lifetime member he really. While Reed built a lot of the the success the Model E. Also earned a position that demonstrated a lifetime of people to sailing the Volvo Cup.

The legends and their messages brought with them legends. Everyone had the in his own personal lives and in competition. Also clearly had the support for them. Everyone wanted to meet him, although because scheduled his every event and event was assumed to have a 10-hour wait to chat with him, unless those that had reached in a little someone that changed their lives.

Among the five men of business were three left to right, but former Sailing Magazine Editor Robert Gurney, long editor and reader that "reads our letters" (and that, too, was also an honor to accept the award). Paul Cayard, with the Volvo Paper and sail design, always off the magazine in Paris, built by the father and which was mostly "read" and "written" to the Sailing Hall of Fame, right for most men.

From the great, great grandsons of Justice William Wright over Hobbs to all time that he keeps a "White" in his memorabilia and will in every year. Family members represented of important figures such as Robert Thomas, Captain Charles Reed, Ted Thornhill, Ben Minkley, Ole Stephens and John Henshull. — Joe Ditley
